

CHAPTER 22

DEVELOPMENT

Article 22.1: General Provisions

1. The Parties affirm their commitment to promote and strengthen an open trade and investment environment that seeks to improve welfare, reduce poverty and inequalities, raise living standards and create new employment opportunities in support of sustainable development.
2. The Parties acknowledge the importance of development in promoting inclusive economic growth, as well as the instrumental role that trade and investment can play in contributing to economic development and prosperity. Inclusive economic growth includes a more broad-based distribution of the benefits of economic growth through the expansion of business and industry, the creation of sustainable livelihood and jobs, and the alleviation of poverty.
3. The Parties acknowledge that economic growth and development contribute to achieving the objectives of this Agreement, and that effective domestic coordination of trade, investment and development policies can contribute to sustainable economic growth.
4. The Parties recognise the potential for joint development activities by the Parties to reinforce efforts to achieve sustainable development goals.
5. The Parties also recognise that activities carried out under Chapter 20 (Cooperation and Capacity Building) are an important component of joint development activities.

Article 22.2: Promotion of Development

1. The Parties acknowledge the importance of each Party's leadership in implementing development policies, including policies that are designed for its nationals to maximise the use of the opportunities created by this Agreement.
2. The Parties further recognise that transparency, good governance and accountability contribute to the effectiveness of development policies.

Article 22.3: Broad-Based Economic Growth

1. The Parties acknowledge that broad-based economic growth reduces poverty, enables sustainable delivery of basic services, and expands opportunities for people to live healthy and productive lives.
2. The Parties recognise that broad-based economic growth promotes peace, stability, democratic institutions, attractive investment opportunities, and effectiveness in addressing national and global challenges.
3. The Parties also recognise that generating and sustaining broad-based economic growth requires sustained high-level commitment by their governments to effectively and efficiently administer public institutions, invest in public infrastructure, welfare, health and education systems, and foster science, technology, innovation and entrepreneurship, and access to economic opportunity.
4. The Parties may enhance broad-based economic growth through policies that take advantage of trade and investment opportunities created by this Agreement in order to contribute to, among other things, sustainable development and the reduction of poverty. These policies may include those related to the promotion of market-based approaches aimed at improving trading conditions and access to finance for vulnerable areas or populations, and SMEs.

Article 22.4: Women and Economic Growth

1. The Parties recognise that enhancing opportunities in their territories for women, including workers and business owners, to participate in the domestic and global economy contributes to economic development. The Parties further recognise the benefit of sharing their diverse experiences in designing, implementing and strengthening programmes to encourage this participation.
2. Accordingly, the Parties shall consider undertaking cooperative activities aimed at enhancing the ability of women, including workers and business owners, to fully access and benefit from the opportunities created by this Agreement. These activities may include providing advice or training, such as through the exchange of officials, and exchanging information and experience on:
 - (a) programmes aimed at helping women build their skills and capacity, and enhancing their access to markets, science and technology, and financing;
 - (b) developing women's leadership networks; and
 - (c) identifying best practices related to workplace flexibility.

Article 22.5: Education, Science and Technology, Research and Innovation

1. The Parties recognise that the promotion and development of education, science and technology, research and innovation can play an important role in accelerating growth, enhancing competitiveness, creating jobs, and expanding trade and investment among the Parties.

2. The Parties further recognise that policies related to education, science and technology, research and innovation can help the Parties maximise the benefits derived from this Agreement. Accordingly, each Party may encourage the design of policies in these areas that take into consideration trade and investment opportunities arising from this Agreement, in order to further increase those benefits. Those policies may include initiatives with the private sector, including those aimed at developing relevant expertise and managerial skills, and enhancing enterprises' ability to transform innovations into competitive products and start-up businesses.

Article 22.6: Joint Development Activities

1. The Parties recognise that joint activities by the Parties to promote maximisation of the development benefits derived from this Agreement can reinforce national development strategies, including, where appropriate, through work with bilateral partners, private companies, academic institutions and non-governmental organisations.

2. On a mutually agreed basis, the Parties shall endeavour to facilitate joint activities so that the benefits derived from this Agreement might more effectively advance each Party's development goals. These joint activities may include:

- (a) discussion by the Parties to promote, where appropriate, alignment of Parties' development assistance and finance programmes with national development priorities;
- (b) consideration of ways to expand engagement in science, technology and research to foster the application of innovative uses of science and technology, promote development and build capacity;
- (c) facilitation of public and private sector partnerships that enable private enterprises, including SMEs, to bring their expertise and resources to cooperative ventures with government agencies in support of development goals; and
- (d) involvement of the private sector, including philanthropic organisations and businesses, and non-governmental organisations in activities to support development.

Article 22.7: Contact Points on Development

1. Each Party shall designate and notify a contact point on Development to facilitate communications between the Parties on any matter covered by this Chapter.
2. The contact points shall facilitate:
 - (a) the exchange of information on the Parties' experiences regarding the formulation and implementation of national policies intended to derive the greatest possible benefits from this Agreement;
 - (b) the discussion of any proposals for future joint development activities in support of development policies related to trade and investment;
 - (c) the invitation, as appropriate, of international donor institutions, private sector entities, non-governmental organisations or other relevant institutions to assist in the development and implementation of joint development activities;
 - (d) the consideration of issues associated with the implementation and operation of this Chapter, with a view towards considering ways the Chapter may enhance the development benefits of this Agreement;
 - (e) where appropriate, the coordination of meetings between government representatives of each Party to address any matter covered by this Chapter; and
 - (f) other functions as the Parties may decide in respect of maximising the development benefits derived from this Agreement;

Article 22.8: Relation to Other Chapters

In the event of inconsistency between this Chapter and another Chapter of this Agreement, the other Chapter shall prevail to the extent of the inconsistency.

Article 22.9: Non-Application of Dispute Settlement

Neither Party shall have recourse to dispute settlement under Chapter 27 (Dispute Settlement) for any matter arising under this Chapter.
